

Printed by: Brian Hayduk
 Title: Re: Re: Powerweb Technologies News Release

Tuesday, September 19, 2000 7:11:07 PM
 Page 1 of 2

Tuesday, September 19, 2000 4:32:57 AM

Message

From:  lbudike@2powerweb.com

Subject: Re: Re: Powerweb Technologies News Release

To:  Brian Hayduk

Brian,

I am so glad you finally took the time to respond (not the greatest response I might add) to our several attempts to resolve this situation. What seems to be the problem with the Press Release? Does AESNewEnergy have a problem with the truth? The truth that your company used proprietary Powerweb information to launch curtailment services and develop a competitive Internet product after signing a NDA and a Letter of Intent promising Powerweb $500,000 dollars? Or are you unclear about your agreement to co-develop a sales and marketing campaign on the curtailment product we designed?

I want to move forward on this, I asked several times for you to propose a solution but your company keeps procrastinating. I asked your people to put a solution in writing over two weeks ago with no response.

And just for the record, the one financial institution that I did refer to your company - got a negative response from your people on our company. What a coincidence?

-----Original Message-----

From: Brian Hayduk <bhayduk@newenergy.com>

To: manderson@2powerweb.com <manderson@2powerweb.com>; lbudike@2powerweb.com <lbudike@2powerweb.com>

Cc: skass@newenergy.com <skass@newenergy.com>; icurnyn@newenergy.com <icurnyn@newenergy.com>; dmcgeown@newenergy.com <dmcgeown@newenergy.com>

Date: Monday, September 18, 2000 11:31 AM

Subject: Fwd: Re: Powerweb Technologies News Release

> Lou/Martin

>

>As you can see below, I specifically said that I would not agree to a >press release regarding our two companies agreement. Given that, we were >surprised to read your press release last week that we neither agreed to >or reviewed. We are investigating our legal options at this point as well >as whether to re-contact those financial institutions for whom we provided >references on your behalf. I am clearly confused by your actions on >several fronts regarding this relationship.

>

> Martin

>

>We will have to hold on this for now. I am not comfortable going with

EXHIBIT

NewEnergy-45
 9/13/04 51 am

NE000011

EXHIBIT D

Printed by: Brian Hayduk

Tuesday, September 19, 2000 7:11:07 PM

Title: Re: Re: Powerweb Technologies News Release

Page 2 of 2

>this without something solid in place, both on the project and/or contract >side. Steve Kass is our Marketing Director and can provide you with some >NewEnergy material for the bottom section.

>>manderson@2powerweb.com writes:

>>Lou Budike asked me to forward the attached to you (as I think you know, >>he is out of the country at the moment). We want to issue a news release >>about the NewEnergy/Powerweb agreement as we think this is significant.
>>Also, we're tired of reading nothing but Silicon Energy's vaporware press >>releases.

>>I have written some words that you might of said (I think). As you know, >>it's usual for the writer of a Press Release to make up quotes and then >>get them reviewed and blessed. Are these quotes okay with you? If not, >>can you let me know what you would like to say.

>>I need to fill in the bottom section on "About NewEnergy". I can get this >>from your web site but if you have anything else that would help, please >>send it to me.

>>We want to issue this next week, so would like your input and approval as >>soon as possible.

>>Many thanks.

>>Martin C.T. Anderson

>>Marketing Director

>>Powerweb Technologies, Inc.

>>415 East Baltimore Pike, Media, PA 19063

>>610-627-9600

>>manderson@2powerweb.com

NE000012